MISSION

Fiona's mission is to support individuals, teams and companies in delivering outstanding and sustainable results through a unique combination of coaching, consulting and training. Her ultimate commitment is to inspire and support her clients to achieve what they perceive to be 'the impossible,' finding the courage to pursue their goals and dreams, whatever size.

PASSION & JOURNEY

Fiona's passion since graduating from Oxford University has been on the transformation of people, products and organizations. After spending two years teaching in inner city schools Fiona began her aerospace career at Rolls-Royce. Recognized for her leadership skills, she was quickly advanced into leadership positions and nominated for the High Potential Pool. In her last three roles Fiona was the first female and youngest person ever to serve. Throughout her journey she empowered others through training her colleagues, serving on board committees, public speaking, mentoring and coaching.

Since turning her focus to coaching and consulting through the launch of her own business, Ready to Fly LLC, Fiona has worked with a diverse range of business leaders and entrepreneurs. She also develops people through her role on the leadership team of Accomplishment Coaching's coaches training and leadership development program.
